

THE ETHICAL CONSULTING GROUP DOMESTIC AND FAMILY VIOLENCE POLICY

ECG
THE ETHICAL CONSULTING GROUP

PURPOSE

1. This policy sets out principles and expected behaviours regarding responding to domestic and family violence victim/survivors and perpetrators in ECG and associated agency workplaces.

APPLICATION

2. This policy contains a set of instructions which binds all those employed with the ECG.

BACKGROUND

3. The ECG recognises that domestic and family violence is one of the most serious issues we face as a community.
4. Leave for domestic violence purposes was included as an additional entitlement in ECG employment agreements, effective from the formation of the company in 2018.
5. This Policy should be read in conjunction with other elements of the ECG Domestic and Family Violence Toolkit. Responses to domestic and family violence should be undertaken with reference to the Guide to Responding to Disclosures of Domestic and Family Violence and once appropriate training has been undertaken.

DEFINITION

6. Domestic and family violence is an ongoing pattern of behaviour aimed at controlling a victim through fear. The term “domestic violence” usually refers to violence against an intimate partner or ex-partner, while “family violence” may include violence perpetrated against children, older people, parents and other kin or family members. Women are most at risk of harm from their intimate partners and women and children experience the most profound effects of domestic and family violence.

7. The ACT Family Violence Act 2016 defines family violence as any of the following behaviours by a person against a family member:
  - i. physical violence or abuse
  - ii. sexual violence or abuse
  - iii. emotional or psychological abuse
  - iv. economic abuse
  - v. threatening behaviour
  - vi. coercion or any other behaviour that:
    - > controls or dominates the family member and causes them to feel fear for their safety or the safety of another family member; or
    - > causes a child to hear, witness or otherwise be exposed to the above behaviours.

PRINCIPLES

8. The three principles that underpin the approach to incidents and disclosures of domestic and family violence in the ECG are – Support, Confidentiality and Safety.
9. The ECG recognises the right to live free from the fear and experiences of violence, and the right to liberty and security of a person outlined in the Human Rights Act 2004. Domestic and family violence is a crime and can be subject to criminal and civil legal intervention.
10. The ECG understands that domestic and family violence can affect people of all cultures, religions, ages, genders, sexual orientation, educational backgrounds and income levels.
11. The ECG believes that workplaces have an important role in supporting people who have been affected by domestic and family violence and assisting them to take steps to secure their safety.

12. The ECG will support all employees to take appropriate action, should they suspect domestic and family violence is affecting a colleague.
13. The ECG recognises that domestic and family violence may have a range of impacts on employees in the workplace. For example:
  - > arriving late to work or needing to leave work at short notice to protect themselves and/or children
  - > requesting time off work to attend appointments
  - > experiencing difficulty managing workloads
  - > being distracted, anxious or distressed; or alternatively
  - > receiving threatening or abusive calls, texts or emails at work
  - > witnessing threats and /or violence and abuse towards an employee in the workplace.

APPROPRIATE BEHAVIOURS

It is important that as a workplace we have a strong and robust response to domestic and family violence as attitudes and cultures that prevail in workplaces can influence the level to which violence in our society is supported or condoned.

14. The ECG will support its employees experiencing domestic and family violence. ECG employees experiencing domestic and family violence are encouraged to inform a manager with whom they feel comfortable speaking, who will inform them of the available supports. This may include access to paid leave for domestic violence purposes and a range of flexible workplace arrangements provided in ECG enterprise agreements.
15. The ECG understands how difficult it can be for an employee to disclose that they have experienced or are experiencing domestic and family violence and strives to create an environment where people feel safe to disclose. Any disclosure by an employee experiencing domestic and family violence will be treated on a need to know basis for the purpose of workplace safety and with the highest possible level of confidentiality in line with the Information Privacy Act 2014. It should be noted that the mandatory reporting requirements under the Children and Young People Act 2008 will apply in these situations.
16. The ECG is committed to promoting, achieving and maintaining the highest levels of health and safety for all employees. Additionally, under the Work Health and Safety Act 2011 the ECG has a duty of care to its employees within the workplace. If there is a possibility that an abusive partner/family member/stalker or other threat to safety may affect an employee at work, appropriate steps will be taken to ensure the safety of the employee and their colleagues. Apart from immediate security arrangements, this may include implementing appropriate reasonable adjustments such as moving the affected employee to another work location, changing telephone numbers and email contact details.

17. The ECG will not tolerate domestic and family violence being perpetrated in or from the workplace. Such behaviour is a direct violation of the ECG Code of Conduct and Section 9 of the Public Sector Management Act 1994. Allegations of sexual or physical assault within the bounds of the workplace will be immediately referred to the police without internal investigation.
18. ECG employees who perpetrate domestic and family violence outside the workplace may be referred to relevant counselling and support services if appropriate.
